INTRODUCTION:

1. The PARISH REGISTERS of KIRBY MUXLOE 1597 - 1702.

There are three volumes of Registers covering the period 1597-1702 and Bishop's Transcripts exist for the early dates of 1561 and 1566. The earliest volume has been made of leaves that had become detached from what is now Volume II. It is in a mutilated and stained condition and many entries, particularly as regards Burials 1598-1613 and the 1630s, are missing or incomplete. A valuable and generally accurate transcript was made by E.K. Elliott in 1914, since when the condition of the Register has deteriorated further.

The second Volume contains entries from 1636 - 1702 but in hopeless chronological order. There are some several dozen duplicate entries and the matter is further complicated by the existence of a Third Volume covering part of the Commonwealth Period. It is most important to realise that this Volume is titled as being a Register of "all Marriages Births and Burials for Glenfield Kirby and Branston According to the Act of Parliament from the 29th September 1653 - 1664. William fairfield Register."

An added complication is in Calendar dates. It will be recalled that up to 1752 the year ran from March 25th, but not all Register scribes have adopted the old numbering of years and some have numbered the years according to modern practice. Where stray or out of order entries are involved it has been a hazardous matter to appropriate entries to their correct year*. Where Bishop's Transcripts exist, the matter is generally simplified, except where entries in the B.T.s have clearly been assigned to the wrong year!

(N.B. *A MODERN YEAR, from JANUARY to JANUARY has been taken throughout.)

The present transcripts are edited in the sense that the baptisms, burials and marriages have been grouped and some attempt has been made at rationalisation, particularly as regards dates, but every effort has been made to retain as much of the original language and spelling as practicable; the old 'f' for 's' has been replaced since it appears unattractive in print and the old 'ff' has often been ignored for the same reason, though a representative sample remain. Small letters at the start of Surnames have also been 'modernised'. It has been considered justifiable to avoid duplicate entries in these transcripts, so that where two or more entries were made in the original registers, a composite entry has been formed. Thus valuable additional information such as relationship, occupation or date of birth has been carefully preserved, as have material differences revealed by the Bishop's Transcripts. Where complete entries have been taken from the B.T.s this fact is clearly stated in the text.

Every effort has been made to achieve a high standard of accuracy in these transcripts, but it must be appreciated that, from the very nature of the work, some errors are inevitable.
2. REGISTER ANALYSIS:

In accord with modern trends of using statistical methods as means of historical proof, the following observations may be of interest. It must be remembered that in the 17th Century Kirby was a relatively small place and too much emphasis must not be placed on the following findings.

Baptisms: Generally speaking the early 1600s were a period of high fertility, but since the registers are not complete it would be misleading to quote figures; the low figures from 1680 may suggest many young couples moved away from the village. (Usual annual average was 3 - 4.)

(I.M.) During the period, Infant Mortality, allowing for the fact that the Baptismal records appear to be more complete than the Burials, produce a rate of not less than 130 per 1,000 live Births. In one period in the 1650s 7 out of 13 died within a year of Baptism.

(Twins) Three sets of twins - two boys and four girls - were born, but baptisms of two members of a family took place on six other occasions. It seems that most of these would have been twins.

(Age) In the small number of instances where both birth and baptism dates are given, the average lapse of time was about 18 days between birth and baptism.

In the period in question, there was an excess of male baptisms of 36 over female, equivalent to about 5%.

(Bastardy) Only one Baptism refers specifically to a Bastard child.

(Monthly Distribution) The most Baptisms took place in December, followed by March, September, April, February, January, May, July, November, October, June and August in that order. For month of conception one must think back 9 Months which would make March the most fertile month and November the least.

(Christian names) The most popular boys' names by far were John and Thomas, followed a long way behind by William. Of every eight baptised, roughly five were given one of these three names. Elizabeth was the most popular girls' name, followed by Anne and its variants, Annie, Anna and Annette. Mary and Alice were also popular and roughly two in every three were christened with one of these four names.

Burials: In a small parish such as Kirby the usual number of burials was perhaps two or three a year. An appreciable rise was usually indicative of some epidemic or other. In 1615-17 the average was 7, and the use of Kirby church by 'outsiders' during the Commonwealth Period cannot disguise an unhealthy period of high mortality from 1654-1665. In 1656 between August 29 and October 29, 8 were buried; in the following year 12 out of 13 burials occurred after 8 August. In 1661, 7 out of the year's total of 10 occurred in a six week period in November-December. Again, in 1685 8 burials occurred between 31 March and 11 May, yet in the rest of the year no burials were registered.

Burials (continued): February was the month with the heaviest mortality, followed by November, April, September, March and October. Noticeably lighter mortality was evidenced in January, August, June, May and July, with December best of all.

Marriages: The number of Marriages in Kirby averaged about one a year. Except during the Commonwealth Period 4 or 5 were rarely recorded. October, May, January, February and November were the most popular months in that order, with December almost completely avoided.

In those dozen and a half instances where age at marriage can be ascertained from baptismal records, it may be said that the male partner was roughly 29 years of age at marriage and the female 27½.

Extraneous Matter in Registers: Very little to interest here, though the two following items may be noticed:

"Robert Port confirmed Pastor of Kirby Mucklesse in the County of Leicester by Authority of Parliament the 21st June 1649. The sayd Robert Port was confirmed also Rector of Glenfield (in the sayd County) by order of Parliament the 7th of May followinge 1650."

"April 19th 1650
Benjamin Kinge ( Constable
William Adams, depit (
William Rayson
Richard Kirk
William Southelle
Thomas Penford
 overseer of the Highway
 overseer of the Poore"

Name Distribution: A glance at the Index reveals a great number of single entries and the 17th Century seems to have been a period of much coming and going in Kirby. Only four families - BALLARD, CARTER, CLARKE, SUMMERFIELD - appear to have been present throughout, and at 1700 the Community seems to have been less thriving than at a Century earlier. The reasons were several - between 1590 and 1607 we know from the Depopulation returns that over 250 acres were enclosed; the Disafforestation of Leicester Forest by Charles I in 1628 and its subsequent enclosure and changes in Lords of the Manor - Hastings followed by Bannaster and Woollaston of Shenton with the Commonwealth Period on top - all these must have played their part. In 1563 (Diocesan Returns) there were 27 householders, yet in 1666 (Hearth Tax Returns) there were 21 families. (See also Appendix.)

Occupation: Partly thanks to duplicate entries, details of occupation is given relatively frequently. A fair picture of the social class of the village can consequently be built up - from Gentleman to servant, from yeoman and husbandman to labourer; among the trades mentioned are those of carpenter, weaver, smith, victualler and whittawer.
