INTRODUCTION:

Volume II. The PARISH REGISTERS of KIRBY MUXLOE 1703 - 1837

There are eight Registers covering the period 1703-1837 as follows:
Vol. I 1703-22, Baptisms, Burials and Marriages with a list of Briefs (for space reasons, not transcribed here) for 1725 (at the back); Vol. II 1750-93 Baptisms and Burials with Marriages (to 1753); Vol. III 1784-94 Marriages with Baptisms 1789; Vol. IV 1794-1812 Baptisms and Burials; Vol. V 1796-1811 Marriages; Vol. VI 1813-1816 Marriages; Vol. VII 1813-1880 Baptisms; Vol. VIII 1813-1852 Burials. In accordance with usual practice, the present transcripts, containing about 1600 entries, stop at the commencement of Civil Registration in 1857. It might usefully be stated here that the Registers were largely unaffected by non-Conformity until 1876 - a late date.

The Registers for the period in question are generally reliable without any appreciable gaps, though entries for occasional years, particularly around 1790, are probably less than complete.

This second volume of Transcripts follows the same pattern as the first; as much of the original entry, as is compatible with the previous pattern of rationalised editing, has been preserved. Full use has again been made of the Bishop's Transcripts, which are available for most of these later years. Prior to the adoption in 1752 of January 1st as the commencement of our 'modern' calendar year, each year commenced at Lady-Day (March 21st) but in these transcripts the dates of the earlier entries have been modernised for ease of reference, as in the first volume.

A high standard of accuracy in these transcripts has again been a constant aim, though in any work of this nature the highest reasonable standards can still produce errors.

POINTS ARISING FROM FIRST VOLUME: Various entries relating to the PENFORD family occur in the Quakers' Register transcripts at the back of the typed Transcripts of St. Leonard's, Leicester Registers, available in the Archives Dept., Leicester Museum.

The 1597 Burial entry on page 17 should read KEWE, not KEPE!

The top of page 30, "SHIER should read BAUCHIER?"

Burials: The average number of Burials was four, but the early and middle decades of the 18th Century produced appreciably lower figures than this. Peak burial year was 1728 with 15 (7 concentrated in August and a further 3 in September). As there were only two baptisms, a net loss of 13 in this single year would mean that the population suffered a set-back in the region of 10%. The cause of this heavy mortality is not known and does not seem to have affected the neighbouring mother parish of Glenfield. It was a little too early for Smallpox or Influenza in this area, and could probably be put down to the fatal form of 'low putrid fever'. 11 deaths in 1784 was the next worst year, but during 1723-25 there was a total death roll of 16. August saw the heaviest mortality and nearly a ninth of all burials took place in this month. Other bad months were March and April, but there was little to choose between the other months. December was again the healthiest month.

After 1799, age at death is regularly given in the Burial registers; roughly 2 in 5 died before reaching their 'teens, yet 1 in 11 lived to be over 80. Early in the nineteenth century, the average age was about 50 years at death, yet the figure fell to nearer 40 during the 1820s and 30s.

Marriages: The annual number of marriages remained very small - one or two was the usual figure; approximately 1 in 5 are stated to have been married by Licence. The popularity of October weddings was even more pronounced - nearly twice as many as in the next most favoured month, April - but in a near exclusively Agricultural community, this is scarcely surprising. July, March and January were chiefly avoided.

After the 1760s, when both partners had to sign the register, 3 in every 10 weddings were between illiterate partners; one of the partners could not write at the time of marriage in 1 out of every 4 cases - a reminder of the marriages.

In these transcripts, details of witnesses (which have in some instances, genealogical significance) have been omitted since these names are often a hindrance to accurate searching.

(Note: A number of Kirby people were married at the mother church at Glenfield - see Appendix.)

An examination of more than 50 instances of people, baptized in the parish, marrying for the first time, discloses that the average age at marriage was approximately 29 for males and 26 for females.

REGISTER ANALYSIS:
1703 to 1837

Baptisms

Over the period the annual average was six, with a noticeable increase in the birth rate after 1760. The most baptisms recorded was 14 in 1794 and other 'peak' years included 1787, 1812, 1817 and 1823.

Based on burial entries within one year of corresponding baptismal entries, Infant Mortality would be not less than 101 per 1,000 live births. In the latter half of the eighteenth century the figure increased, only to diminish sharply after 1800. Up to 1762, nearly three times as many boys as girls died in infancy, thereafter, the infant female death rate was double that of the male.

Joint baptisms may suggest twins, but this is a dangerous assumption: in 4 out of 6 cases both were girls.

Age
Where both birth and baptismal dates are given, nearly 10% were baptised aged 3 months or more. The average of the other instances was, as in the previous period in Volume I, a lapse of 18 days between birth and baptism.

Distribution
The excess male balance in the previous period was more than redressed since there was an excess of female baptisms over male of 6% (equivalent to about 8%), wholly attributable to the years after 1760. This certainly slowed down the growth of Kirby during the 19th Century.

Bastardy
Though it is reasonable to expect the Registers to understatement the position, from specific mention of baptisms of bastard or illegitimate children, the bastard rate would be not less than 18 per 1,000 baptisms. The worst periods were 1756-57 (3 out of 12 baptisms), and 1790-92 (3 out of 21).

Monthly Distribution
The most Baptisms took place in June, followed by August and July, but by far the fewest. Consequently, the months of September, November and June were the most fertile and February and October the least.

Christian Names
John remained the favourite boy's name, but William has become more popular at the expense of the previous second, Thomas. Though the relative use of such names as Robert and Henry declined, names such as James, Joseph, Samuel and Richard were becoming more widely used. Nevertheless, 4 in 7 of the boys baptised received the names John, or William or Thomas.

Elizabeth was no longer the top girl's name, being slightly exceeded by Mary. Anne and its variants were in less favour, Sarah has become popular, and Rebecca is now rarely found. Names coming into regular use are Jane, Catherine, Hannah and Rebecca, and to a lesser extent, Martha. More than 1 in 5 girls were christened Mary or Elizabeth.

By me Henry Cremp

Assessor

(The above two returns are particularly interesting as they show the position before and after the change in the Lordship of the Manor in 1778)
